On the occasion of 5th June world Environment day at 4:00pm to 5:pm ,Dept.of Environmental science of MSS,s Arts,Science and Commerce College Ambad Dist.Jalna organised National level webinar on Environmental crisis : post Corona opportunity and challenges, as Head of Dept..I request all Nature lovers and care takers to attend the informative and knowledgable webinar by making your online registration on given link..

The coronavirus pandemic is a reminder to all, especially India, that all forms of life is necessary and must be protected for our survival.

Three weeks after being locked into homes there is now the beginning of a realization that our future as a species demands a drastic rethink of our present style of destructive and exploitative living — a living which thrives on 'development'.

Covid-19-curated clear blue skies, rejuvenated rivers, clean and freshwater bodies, wild fauna on city streets or visibility of the Himalayas from distant cities do not excite the common Indian. Nobody wanted to barter life and livelihood with a better environment. However, Covid-19 gives the opportunity to reboot our economic system and align growth with the environment. The lockdown has proved that nature can recover fast, if pollution agents are withdrawn. It has indirectly resulted in environmental sensitization of the masses. It may leave the future generation desiring sustainability. The looming economic crisis and threat to life have instilled a sense of insecurity, too. This negativity may manifest as a conservative worldview and support sustainable development.

The counterview is that the environmental euphoria is skin to shonshan vaivagya. It is the transient ponderings on the ephemeral nature of life that vanishes once you exit the cremation ground. Hence, post corona situation is having ways of opportunity and challenges to work positive in the field of Environment and having wide scope.
